What motivated you to study Engineering/IT?
I love to share information with others. IT gives me the skills to extract information from raw data and provides many communication and visualization tools which allow me to share that information much more effectively and confidently with others. IT also trains analytical skills which help me become a better problem solver.

What's your favorite memory of the GWiEIT summer school?
It immersed me in an international collaborative project with people from many different backgrounds.

What would you recommend women who just started their IT/Engineering studies?
Don't be afraid to ask for and embrace opportunities! Our ability to work and study is only limited to the extent that we think it is.
